Dramatic changes take place in kids center

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

A bucket of water, scrub brush, little sweat, a blister or two, determination, and a dream of a place for kids to have something to do, has made a dramatic change to a worn out building in Bay St. Louis.

The building once housed a creamery, then the Welfare Department and was about written off as being obsolete.

Along comes a group of determined parents, grandparents, and concerned citizens and 'over night' a transformation takes place.

Taking a name that implies its mission, Save Our Children, an organization was formed, a plea by Geraldine Lang was made to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, a lease on the building secured.

The building is located on Necaise Avenue across from the St. Stanislaus stadium, Bay St. Louis.

It has taken more too than the above when you add the many personal contacts, begging for money, materials and a friend donates professional guidance which was necessary.

First and foremost a roof needed to be repaired and replaced in many sections. Along comes the Hancock County Kiwanas who donated the materials, then Dillmann Roofing does the work at a 'brother-in-law' price.

The city of Bay St. Louis is process of putting up a fence around the property.

Much of the work has been done, still much more is needed. There is a need for cash to pay for paint and brushes already

Officials asked to study water

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis city officials were asked Monday to study the local water system to see if it needs substantial upgrading.

Councilmember Charles Scianna noted that water service had temporarily been interrupted several times during the past three or four months. He questioned whether such failures are due to inadequate equipment or a need for additional water towers.

"This is critical," Scianna said of the issue during a workshop session of the council. He said a study should be done to see if the city needs one or more additional water towers, to maintain water pressure.

Public Works Director Ronald J. Vanney said the most recent service outages were caused by improper installation of probe within one of the city's two water towers. The probes got wet and shorted out, he said, but have since been replaced.

Mayor Eddie Favre said as long as everything in the existing system is operating correctly, the city doesn't need an additional water tower to maintain pressure.

In fact, he said, the city's fire insurance rating recently was improved because the city has an excess of water pressure over requirements.

"I'm still not satisfied," Scianna said after the explanations. He asked Vanney and other city officials to study the matter and report back to council later.

Development plan okayed

BY MARY G. SEILEY

A major phase of the comprehensive planning and development plan for Bay St. Louis was authorized Tuesday.

Council agreed to a $12,000 contract with Continental Consultants, even as they assured two concerned citizens that this phase of the study would include public involvement.

The consultants, from Jackson, are scheduled meet with the Planning and Zoning Commission on Wednesday to present the maps and documents they've compiled during the first phase of study. Council has received regular written reports on the consultants' first phase of work, but there have been no public meetings on the study thus far.

Two citizens at Tuesday's meeting questioned when area citizens would have a chance to be involved in the planning process. Council president James Thrifflay promised there would be workshops for the public, aside from meetings between the consultants and city officials.

The first phase of work has produced various study maps of the city, along with projections of the city's current population (8,856), and a survey of housing conditions. Consultants said they found 59.7 percent of residential structures in "standard" condition, 30.9 percent slightly deteriorated, 7.1 percent deteriorated, and 2.3 percent dilapidated.

In other business Tuesday, council posed no objections to a form drafted by city attorney John Scaife concerning applications for using outdoor sound amplifying devices. City officials would require answers to a number of questions concerning the noise that would be generated, before allowing such devices to be used.

City officials would be able to attach special conditions to permits, if it appears necessary to prevent a nuisance.

Scaife also gave council a sample noise ordinance from the city of Ridgeland which requires permits for any commercial establishment playing music on its premises, if the music can be heard beyond the premises at a level of more than 20 decibels.

Council members said the 20-decibel level probably is too restrictive, but they liked general thrust of the Ridgeland ordinance.

City officials have been studying how to regulate various noise disturbances for several months, including overly loud "boom boxes" and blasting car radios. In addition, council has been concerned over noises generated from outdoor commercial activities downtown.

In other business, council dealt with three property cleanup cases. The owner of property at 241 Ballentine Street insisted that he isn't operating a junkyard, but does have about 10 vehicles on his property to repair as a hobby.

Council directed the owner work with city officials to ensure that the operation meets the restrictions of the property's zoning.

Another case, involving a lot next to 333 St. George Street, had been taken off the list of properties up for action Tuesday, because it had been cleaned as requested by city officials.

Still, the lot's owner showed up at the hearing to complain that his lot is used against his will and instructions, to store broken cars.

City officials said they couldn't get involved in the private dispute, but would hold the property owner responsible for keeping the lot within city regulations.

A third case, involving property at 304 Washington Street, led to prolonged discussion between councilmembers and a man who said he is buying the property in installments.

Council gave the citizen a month to follow several instructions, including an order that a former gas station not be used as a residence.

In addition, council directed that any mechanical repair shop operations be moved inside a closed area, and ordered removal of trash and tires on the property.

Hancock hires Gaudin

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL

The Hancock County School Board had a number of action items on the agenda for their Monday, June 6 meeting.

The board, with the exception of Larry Peterson, voted to employ Rocky Gaudin as secondary teacher and head football coach at Hancock Junior-Senior High School for the coming school year. Members welcomed the former Hancock County assistant coach back to the system. He had left to become head football coach at Bay High.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois was pleased to announce that Hancock High School had earned a Sportsman Award, but moved to a more serious issue, that being possible litigation involving neighboring Pearl River County.

She wants the students who live the buffer zone around the Flat Top community, who are required to attend school in Picayune, to be "released to come to us."

She was advised by board attorney Steve Benvenutti as to the legal aspects of the action.

John Mykolyk, architect, advised the board to view the work on the renovation at Gulfview School before issuing payment. There have been problems with the paint adhering to the walls and goo on the floor, he said.

Board president Cherly Bennett asked for a clarification as to what items on the punch list need to be checked, so the board tabled a request from contractors, Dillon Construction, for payment in the amount of $12,600 until the matter is resolved.

Chris Martin and Dale Moore, parents and coaches, requested privilege of the floor to talk to the coach about the student ratio in the county school system. The men conducted a survey of Class 4 A schools and found the average number to be 5.3 coaches per school. Martin said he wondered if local athletes were being short-changed with the lack of coaches to go around. He asked that the board consider hiring more coaches.

Bennett advised him that the City is eager to see casino hotel plans

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis city officials said Tuesday they're tired of waiting to see Casino Magic's specific plans for a hotel and golf course.

City Council members James Thrifflay and Tad Black said the casino has failed to respond to repeated city requests to submit the plans for review and action by the Planning and Zoning Commission and City Council.

"We don't want to hinder anything they do," Thrifflay said of the casino. "We're not trying to be mean or anything." Still, Thrifflay said he is concerned that final plans for the long-promised hotel and golf course haven't materialized before City Council for review.

Black said he's curious why the hotel hadn't submitted site

If You Could See Where I Have Gone

If you could see where I have gone, the beauty of this place
And how it feels to know you're home to see the Savior's face.

To wake in peace and know no fear, just joy beyond compare.

While still on earth you miss me yet, you would want me there.

If you could see where I have gone, had made the trip with me.

You'd know I didn't go alone, the Savior came with me.

When I awoke He was by my side and said as He touched my hand,

"Hurry you're going home, to a grand and glorious land."

If you could see where I have gone, and see what I have been shown.

You'd never know another fear or ever feel alone.

You'd marvel at the care of God, His Hand on every life.

And realize He really cares, and bears with us each strife.

And that He weeps when one is lost, His heart is filled with pain.

But oh, the joy when one comes home, a child at home again.

If you could see where I have gone, to stay a while with me,

Could share the things that God has made, to grace eternity.

But know you couldn't ever leave once heaven's joys you'd known.

You couldn't bear to walk earth's path once heaven was your home.

If you could see where I have gone, you'd know we'll meet someday.

And though I am parted from you now, that I am just away.

And now that I am home with Him, secure in every way, I'm waiting here at heaven's door to greet you some sweet day.

plans for the hotel. "None of what they said they would do have they don't," said Black of promises for submission of plans.

Thriffley said he has questions on why the casino recently laid off some 300 workers, at the same time it's launching construction of a major hotel and golf course.

The comments were prompted by a request that the city abandon an unconstructed stretch off Julia Avenue, between Engman Avenue and Beach Boulevard. Don Clark, vice president of Brown & Mitchell engineering, said in a letter to the city that the unopened roadway is surrounded by Casino Magic property.

Clark said the stretch of Julia Avenue would become part of Holes 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in the casino's golf course.

Mayor Eddie Favre and councilman James Rutherford defended the casino's request. Rutherford said the casino less than a month ago submitted plans for the golf course to city staff. The abandonment is needed to finalize the course's location, Rutherford said.

Favre said the city has no foreseeable use for the property at issue, noting it cuts through wetlands. The avenue is "not open and it never will be," the mayor said.

Rutherford's motion, authorizing the city attorney to draft an ordinance officially abandoning the avenue passed unanimously. City Council also agreed, however, to ask Casino Magic officials to come to a special meeting Tuesday, with site plans in hand, explaining the need for abandoning the roadway and intentions for hotel and golf course construction.

Clark said Wednesday he had offered to be at any City Council meeting where the casino's development plans were to be discussed, but had not been notified that the Julia Avenue matter was up for action Tuesday.

Final site plans haven't been submitted to the city, he said, because a series of modifications have been required in order for the casino to obtain the permits it needs at the state and federal levels.

One such modification, he said for example, is the need to shift the site of the golf course's clubhouse location some 200 feet. Each such change in plans, he said, will require formal action by the city once the plans have been submitted for site plan review.

While modifications are still being made to the hotel and golf course plans, he said, the casino can't ask for final city approval of the development, Clark said.

Still, Clark said, "I would be absolutely happy to appear before them ... I am more than happy to show up at the meetings."

board was considering doing an outside survey on that situation.

Berlon Lee addressed the group about 16th section land near two parcels of property he owns that had come up for re-bid. He lost track of time and lost his lease on the land. He wanted the board to consider reversing the decision to lease it to another bidder. He said he wanted to develop the land for public use.

The board advised him to make a written request for re-evaluation of the decision.

Second year school bus driver Yvonne McLaughlin was prepared, with facts and figures to back up her request, to make a case for Hancock's school bus drivers who she said need a raise in pay. She asked for an increase to make their wages equal to surrounding areas which pay $4,500 a year.

Procedures and policies for addressing the Hancock County School Board were also discussed. Kay Sones asked the superintendent to explain the guidelines.

A budget workshop was set for 4 p.m. June 9 and a public hearing for 4:30 p.m. June 16.

Wright's Black Boy, published in 1945, was regarded as a fictionalized autobiography which sold over 400,000 copies, but never won the acclaim and recognition of Native Son. IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

IMPORTANT OCCASION

On Sunday, June 12, Annunciation Parish Catholic Church will celebrate its 125th anniversary.

Long ago, a little chapel was built in this area, somewhere on the banks of the Jourdan River. It was known as the Jourdan River Chapel, and the area in general was referred to as the Three Rivers Mission at the area surrounding the Pearl, Jourdan and Wolf rivers, which included the area known then as Wolfstown, now called DeLisle.

The little church was soon outgrown, and a bigger one was built in 1869 and was given the name of The Church of the Annunciation.

By 1886 another church had to be built to accommodate the larger congregation, and this is quite possibly the same structure we still use.

This makes this parish the second oldest Catholic parish in Hancock County and the church structure quite possibly the oldest church building in the entire Biloxi Diocese still in active use—and that's some history. This is what is hoped will be celebrated June 12.

Bishop Joseph Howze will be the chief celebrant of a Mass at the church, and many activities are in the plans to make this a memorable occasion.

A detailed historical booklet of the area for that date is planned, so any relevant input or photos will be greatly appreciated.

Father Henry is encouraging all to think period-style dress, such as long dresses and bonnets or hats for the ladies, and beards, moustaches and hats, etc. for the men.

He claims to be "well on his way with his beard," saying it should be in good shape by then.

They hope the bishop will recognize the oldest living parishioner baptized in the church in 1899, and the newest and youngest to be baptized on this occasion.

The Men's Club will be offering a catered barbecue, but others are asked to bring a covered dish, salad or dessert.

Father Henry says there will be lots to do—125 years of history is difficult to encompass in a space like this, but this will give some idea of the area where we now live, worship and celebrate.

SUCCESSFUL TOUR

Many thanks to Irma Checksfield, who "filled the bus" with members and guests from Diamondhead's AARP and Women's Club for a great day's outing to visit five Louisiana river road plantations.

Lunch was served at Ormond Plantation in Destrehan. Surely all of you from Louisiana remember Brown's Velvet Dairy and "Mr. Brown's Cow." Mr. and Mrs. Brown lived in "Ormond" for many years.

CONCERT

What better place for those "heavenly voices" than St. Paul's Church in Pass Christian Sunday, June 12 at 3 p.m. You are welcome to come hear the beautiful music of the Bay Area Chorale.

ACADEMY HAPPENINGS

The academy says good-bye and we'll miss you to Dianne Seither, art teacher, who is moving to Pensacola, Fla. with her husband.

Every student, K-6th, participated in making murals as a class project. Each class was awarded a prize in a different category.

The Diamondhead AARP is offering the 55 Alive mature driving course June 15 and 16.

Cassie's need pulls strangers together

Special to the Echo

Twenty-year-old Cassie Green's search for a bone marrow donor and the effort to raise funds for donor testing has sparked interest and offers of help from Waveland to Ocean Springs.

While Cassie is still in the hospital recovering from the effects of the chemotherapy used to put her leukemia into remission, fund raisers are springing up all over.

Money is still desperately needed to fund the testing to locate a donor, but enough has been raised to test up to 50 people Saturday, June 11 from 9-11 a.m. in the meeting room of Mississippi Power Company.

The urgent need for funds and donor testing has been increased with the diagnosis the day Cassie's story first ran, of a Biloxi woman, a 31-year-old mother of two young boys, Angela Alley.

Angela has Aplastic Anemia, another disease possibly cured by a bone marrow transplant.

As each donor tested in this drive is added to the American Bone Marrow Registry, any person tested for Cassie will automatically be matched for Angela.

For more information on donor testing, of fund raisers, volunteering or financial contributions, call Cheryl at 466-9453.

To send cards and letters of encouragement to Cassie: P. O. Box 3693, Bay St. Louis, MS 39521-3693.

Chamber/SBDC to offer counseling to businesses

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Small Business Development Center, will be presenting regular programs to assist those thinking about going into business as well as those existing businesses that need a little assistance.

Tuesday, June 7, marked the beginning of counseling service, available every second Tuesday from 9 to noon and every fourth Thursday from 1-4 p.m. at the Chamber office at 412 Hwy. 90, Suite 6 Colonial Plaza Shopping Center, Bay St. Louis.

A representative from the SBDC will be on hand to answer questions and assist local businesses with their problems.

Today from 6-9 p.m., a seminar will be held on "Thinking About Going Into Business."

Registration will be $10 for Chamber members and $15 for non-members.

This workshop will be repeated periodically throughout the year.

For information on either program, contact the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Annunciation Parish celebrates anniversary

Two four-hour sessions will be held at the community center starting at 1 p.m. on the 15th and 9 a.m. on the 16th.

Most insurance companies offer a reduction for successful completion of the course.

To enroll, send check payable to AARP 55 ALIVE for $8 to Brandon Decker, 7926 Hapuna Place, Diamondhead, or call 255-4337 for more information.

ATTENTION

The Diamondhead Babysitting Circle, open to any mother with children, meets on the fourth Tuesday of even months and the fourth Wednesday of odd months, and was designed to eliminate the babysitter cost by using a token exchange program.

Please call Dinah Henderson, 255-4739 or Dee Poulton, 255-4226 for more information. Next meeting if June 28.

TENNIS ANYONE?

Diamondhead Junior Tennis Camp offers tennis instructions for beginner to tournament level junior age 6-18.

The program includes player grouping according to ability level and age, personalized drill instruction and develop stroke production and technique footwork training; competitive match play coaching; video taped performance analysis.

During extended lunch breaks, supervised creative activities will be provided in art, music, nutrition and tennis history and trivia. Seven one-week sessions are offered from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. at $125 (with-out lunch) and $150 (with lunch). Please call Magnus Eklund at 255-5030 for more information.

Parish to celebrate anniversary

Special to the Echo
Annunciation Parish in Kiln will hold a special celebration June 12 to commemorate the occasion of its 125th anniversary.

It was just after the conclusion of the Civil War when this parish was given its name. Catholicism was still in its infancy for all practical purposes in the state of Mississippi.

The first Catholic diocese was established in Natchez by Pope Gregory XVI, who appointed Bishop John J. Chanche as its first bishop.

The diocese was established July 28, 1837, but Bishop Chanche was not appointed until 1841, having turned down similar positions in two other dioceses. Natchez was a busy river town in those days and so was a logical choice for the seat of the first diocese.

In 1847, ten years after the establishment of the diocese, Bishop Chanche created the first parish in Hancock County, Our Lady of the Gulf in Bay St. Louis, and appointed Fr. Stanislaus Louis Buteux as its first pastor.

Hancock County in those days covered a much larger area than the present-day county, but according to notes belonging to Fr. Buteux we read "Saturday 31st, 1847, on the feast of St. Ignatius, Bishop Chanche told me at Natchez that he confides to me Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Pearl River, Jourdan and Wolf River are as far as 20-25 miles to the north."

The present-day boundary of Hancock County was not decided upon until about 1910. Fr. Buteux spent most of his energies in Bay St. Louis, establishing a school for boys that became the present-day St. Stanislaus school, named in honor of its patron saint.

He also established a school for girls to be known as St. Joseph in honor of the St. Joseph (Bourg, France) sisters who were the first to operate that school—the forerunner of the present-day Our Lady Academy.

In those years, travel through the county was difficult and time consuming. One visitor to the areas in the 1850's describes the area east of the Pearl River and south of the 31st parallel as "a dreary and thinly inhabited forest." Consequently, Fr. Buteux only made occasional visits to this area.

By then, it had become known as the Three Rivers Mission, referring to the areas adjacent to the Pearl, Jourdan and Wolf rivers. Records indicate that in those early years, a little church had been built on the banks of the Jourdan River.

With the passage of time and the growth of population, that little church was soon outgrown with the result that a larger church had to be built in 1869 and was given the name of "Church of the Annunciation" in honor of the biblical account of the Angel Gabriel announcing to the Virgin Mary that she was to be the mother of Jesus.

The location of that church is thought to be almost identical to the location of the present-day church structure.

Again, as time progressed and the congregation grew, the church of 1869 was outgrown and a larger church had to be built in the same vicinity in 1886.

Some records indicate that the old church was used as the first Catholic school in the area called St. Mary's and had an enrollment of 11 boys and 17 girls.

This school did not survive for long as apparently that building was demolished to make way for a sacristy for the new church. The church of 1886 is quite possibly much of the present-day structure still in use today with many modifications.

Many elderly parishioners still remember this church of their youth with no electricity, only oil lamps for light and a large stove by the right-hand wall to supply heat in the winter.

In fact, the renovations to this structure in 1985 uncovered some of the old chimney used by that stove.

Many of the early priests who served this parish were natives of France, Belgium or Holland. The records kept here date from 1869 and were hand written in the registers by whatever priest was here at that time. They are available to be viewed in the rectory. Many are written in French or Latin.

The celebration planned for June includes a Mass celebrated by Bishop Joseph Howze, bishop of the Diocese of Biloxi, with any visiting priests as concelebrants.

Parishioners are being encouraged to dress in period costume, long dresses with bonnets or hats for the ladies and the men are considering period dress, together with beards/moustaches.

In the ceremony, the oldest parishioner will be honored, while the newest and youngest will be baptized as part of the liturgy.

The first reading of the liturgy will be rendered in French, the language of the congregation in 1869 by Elise Minnaert, a parishioner and native French Canadian, while the second reading will be read through the medium of Braille by Hope Thomas, the granddaughter of our parishioners on both her maternal and paternal sides.

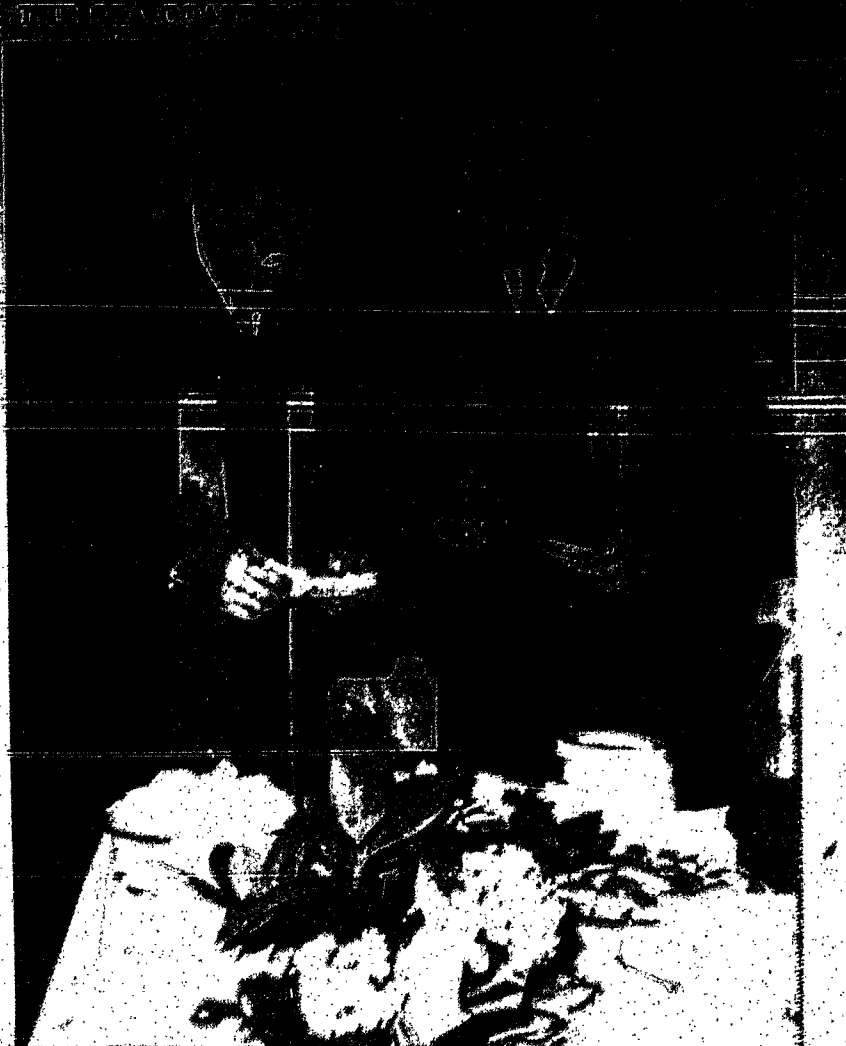

After the Mass, Bishop Howze will dedicate a granite monument in honor of this historic occasion before proceeding to another site where he will plant two live oak trees close to the majestic oaks that now grace the property.

From there, a procession will be led by Bishop Howze, riding a horse and buggy, to the parish hall, followed by pastor Fr. Henry McInerney on horseback and any other parishioners who wish to bring their horses for the occasion.

The annual parish picnic will be in the parish hall where parishioners will bring various dishes.

Also included in the picnic will be some activities for kids, including a space walk and hay ride. A little souvenir shop will be opened at the parish hall to sell some commemorative plates, mugs, t-shirts, bumper stickers, etc.

It is hoped it will be a memorable and enjoyable day for all parishioners.

Citizen's hotline available

The office of Gov. Kirk Fordice announced today that it is now providing a new citizen's hotline service. The 1-800 number (1-800-832-6123) is designed to give Mississippians an opportunity to access government without going through the usual red tape. Citizens who have questions about government, or problems they are having difficulty solving, may call 1-800-832-6123 and receive help or information. The service is sponsored by the governor's office and is answered by members of the governor's staff. The citizen's hotline is simple to use. When a request is taken, staff members begin a search for answers or determine which department has the proper jurisdiction to help. Once the appropriate channels are determined, employees work until a resolution is reached. The citizen is then told of all options available to them. The citizen's hotline will be available during regular business hours and is an on-going service.

Our overlooked resources

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Living under interstate overpasses has to be frightening, uncomfortable, nerve-racking and extremely hard on one's self-esteem. Exposure to the elements is nothing compared to the real risk of being abused, brutalized or even murdered.

Michael Dennis, who was recently in the habit of retiring under the interstate after begging quarters on the streets of New Orleans, capsulized all that: "You know, it's rough out here on the street. You never know what'll happen."

Unable to find work since he was laid off by NASA two years ago, and with no family to fall back on, the foster child had taken to the streets, begging his way through.

Now, standing on the corner of Carrollton and Ulloa, Michael saw a Ford Taurus catch fire after striking a truck and a traffic signal pole. Without a moment's hesitation he rushed to the blazing car and reached for the driver's door.

Flabbergasted bystanders groaned as Michael plunged head-long into the vehicle: "I was worried about their safety. My grandmother and grandfather died in a car accident. No one was around to help them. I did what I had to do."

After extracting Margaret Waltzer, 67, who was at the wheel, Dennis returned to pluck out Elmo, her 79-year-old husband in the rear. Screaming witnesses urged him not to re-enter, but he did, squirming in from the driver's side.

Sight unseen, Elmo was not even visible for the smoke until Michael climbed beside him. First a jammed foot had to be loosened, then Elmo was hustled outside where three other civilians administered CPR just in the nick of time.

Several outstanding lessons are here for the learning. Who would have thought that a homeless person, a panhandler would be the one to ask no questions and brook no hesitation, but just waded in with abandon and effect a daring rescue?

This story made national headlines, confounding people at all levels everywhere, because the homeless have their own little pigeonhole and label given them by a public which considers them a bit less than human quite star-crossed.

We would expect perhaps a Sylvester Stallone-type or a dashing Danny Glover to engage in such spectacular activity. After all, certain people were cut out for such roles, we tend to think. Yet, the hero/heroine often has no flair.

When passing by or dealing with the homeless, we would do well to keep in mind that all of them are precious, though some are wasted and beyond retooling. And some are priceless resources hidden under the disguise of helplessness.

As well as we know the adage, "You can't judge a book by its cover," we still do it time and again. We are entirely too occupied with appearances, conditions and reputations.

What would happen if we could overcome our prejudices and begin to screen the homeless lying around vulnerable, helpless, unproductive and in some ways obnoxious?

Would it not be a great savings financially to tap into whatever resources we have among the homeless? Money, of course, is a venal consideration, but a necessary one. Far more important is the person, the human being, the soul.

Michael Dennis has given us all pause for thought. We humans around the globe are exceedingly rich if we take time to explore, cherish and use all our resources.

Fleet of shrimp boats docked at Bayou Caddy

Optimism reigns as ships head toward the open waters

Terry's crew waits to assist shrimp boats

Loading ice into hole of boat

Shrimp Season

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL

Mississippi's shrimping season started at dawn Wednesday in all areas of the Mississippi Sound including the bays and areas within one half mile of the shore.

Officials with the Bureau of Marine Resources said the season will last until the end of December in waters north of the Intracoastal Waterway.

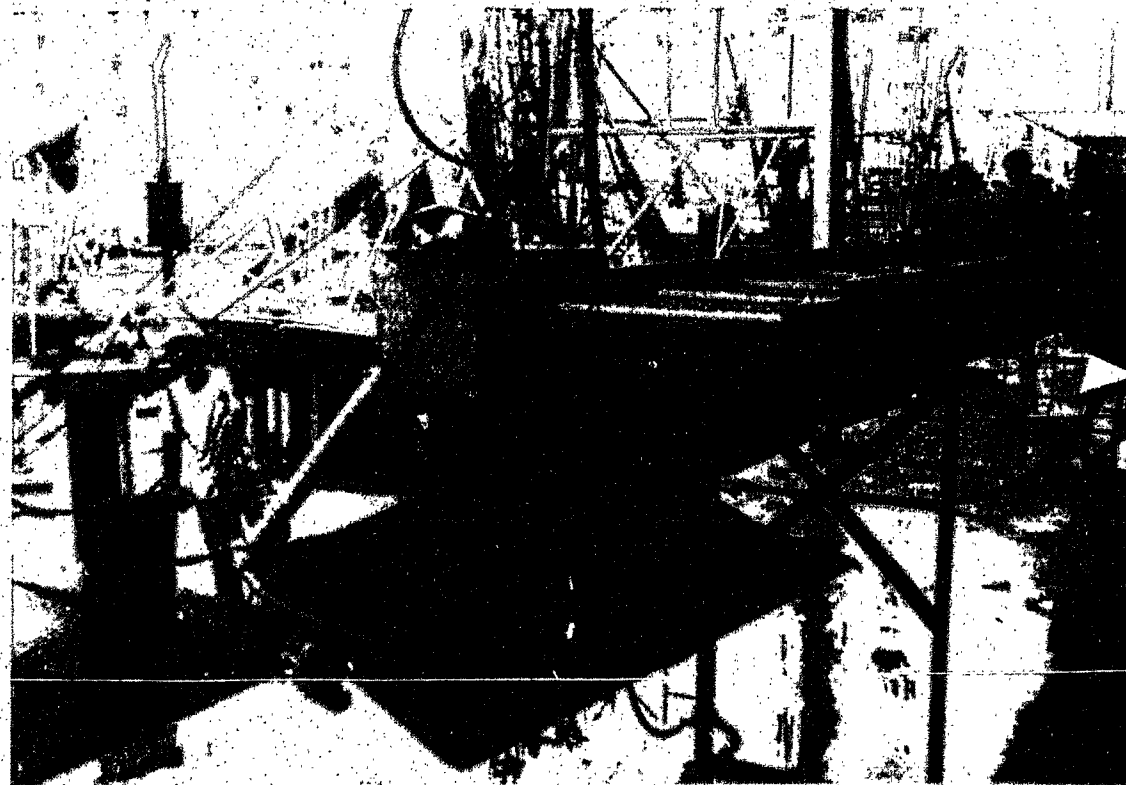

The weather and locations of schools of shrimp will be factors in the success of the shrimpers. Opinions vary with individuals on the sizes that can be expected this season.

The seafood industry figures heavily in the local economy and many area residents make their livings hauling in their catches. The old timers have passed along the art of fishing to their sons, daughters and grandchildren, who often command their own fishing boats and work on the docks, unloading the boats.

Crews at Terry's, a wholesaler and retailer in the seafood trade in Bay St. Louis, work long hours during the season to serve the hundreds of commercial fisherman and shrimpers using their dockside business at Bayou Caddy. The men help unload the boats and handle the huge amounts of ice it takes to preserve the catch in the holes of the boats, as the boats may stay out for days at a time.

Samples of the shrimp are taken from each load. They are counted to determine size and weight and the shrimpers are paid accordingly, said Keith Ladner, owner of Terry's.

Weaver proves to much for Mijangos as Ali makes pro debut 'Electrifying'

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Americans stood firm on the invasion from the outside as Mike Weaver, former US Marine champ and WBA heavy-weight champion, knocked out Ladislao Mijangos at 1:50 of the second round.

Weaver sized up his opponent in the first round, landing devastating jabs to Mijangos. In the second round, Weaver caught Mijangos with an upper cut that sent him to the mat.

Weaver improved his record to 38-16-1 with 27 KO's. Weaver also retained the International Boxing Authority Heavyweight Championship of the world.

In the premier fight of the rest of the undercard, middle-weight Classius 'Electrifying' Ali made his pro debut something that resembled lightning striking.

Ali, formerly Wayne Blair of Miami, had chalked up an impressive 161-6 amateur record. His pro debut was against Wesley Barbier, of Larosa, Louisiana.

Ali scored a technical knockout at 1:45 of the first round. Ali used a crushing right hand to send Barbier to the mat twice before the referee called it quits.

Ali improved to 1-0-0 with 1 KO.

In the other fights of the night, Ricky Rogers scored a unanimous decision against Benji Singleton. Rogers improved his record in the welterweight division to 16-3 with 7 KO's.

In other welterweight action, Humberto Arandas, of Costa Rica, defeated Dennis Ardley by unanimous decision. Arandas improved his pro record to 2-0.

Featherweight competition pitted former NABF 122 pound champ Daryl Pickney against Albert Rendon. Pickney used hard 1-2 counter punches to win the unanimous decision. Pickney upped his record to 17-8 with 11 KO's.

In more welterweight action, Troy Crain scored a 2-25 2nd round TKO on Pedro Martinez. Crain pounded Martinez with a right hook that sent him to the mat.

Crain chalked up his fifth win to only two defeats to go along with 4 KO's.

In the final bout of the evening, heavyweights Rick Farnam and Tony Bradham squared off.

From the beginning of the fight, it was a slugfest. Both fighters came in one each other and brutally pounded away.

However, at the 2:00 mark of the second round Tony Bradham scored a TKO on Rick Farnam. Bradham landed a series of right-left combinations to force the TKO.

Bicycling safety measures explained

As the combination of warm weather and the end of the school year brings out thousands of bicyclists, both these individuals and motorists should be particularly alert to prevent bicycle-motor vehicle collisions, according to the Department of Public Safety's Division of Public Safety Planning.

"All bicyclists are encouraged to wear helmets," said Donald O'Cain, the division's executive director, "and, like motorists, it's vital that they understand the meaning of street signs and do as they direct. Wearing helmets may seem to be unnecessary to bicyclists, but it should be remembered that these individuals have virtually no protection if the bicycle collides with a motor vehicle or other object. Helmets can mean the difference between life and death. Obeying stop signs, traffic lights and other traffic control devices is just as important for bicyclists as it is for motorists."

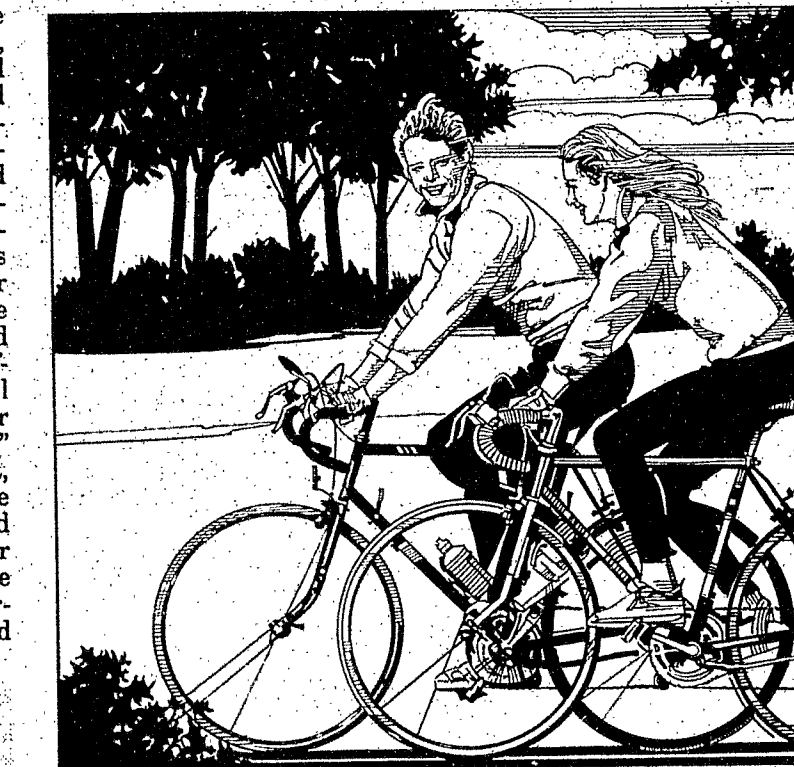

When traveling in the street, bicycle riders should be on the right side near the curb and travel the same way as motor vehicles. When more than one bicycle is involved, it is important to travel single file and never side by side.

Bicyclists never should ride at night unless their bicycles have sufficient reflectors and lights to be easily seen by oncoming motorists.

"Although bicycles are fun to ride, they are not toys," O'Cain noted. "Parents should be sure that their children understand bicycling safety measures, just as adult riders should understand them, and motorists should be particularly cautious when bicycles are on the roadway. Few tragedies can bring about the sadness that comes when a bicyclist, particularly a youthful bicyclist, is killed in a collision with a motor vehicle. Following simple safety rules can avert such tragedies."

Summer time should be a safe time

Summer time means more fun for everyone, but it also means more danger for a child. It's hard to keep a child indoors as favorite summer activities like bike riding, swimming and neighborhood games entice children out of doors.

The last thing on a child's mind is getting hurt, so summer safety should be the first thing a parent thinks about.

Every year, more children die from unintentional injury than from all childhood diseases combined.

"In fact, more children are unintentionally injured during the warmer months of the year," notes Christy Gilliland, director of the Division of Disabilities Prevention, Mississippi Department of Rehabilitation Services.

"In the summer, children have more unsupervised time on their hands and they often spend that time engaging in risky behavior," explains Gilliland.

The Mississippi SAFE KIDS Coalition points out that parents can take action to minimize the risks their children face as they enjoy summer fun.

"The key is prevention," states Robin Stricklin, Mississippi SAFE KIDS spokesperson.

"Parents can often avoid a trip to the doctor or the emergency room by carefully surveying their child's play areas to identify potential hazards."

SAFE KIDS recommends that parents consider the following when evaluating the safety of their own backyard:

- * Make sure all fences and gates are secure.

- * Repair or discard all broken or damaged play equipment.

- * Store all tools and gardening chemicals out of the reach of children.

- * Make sure children do not have access to lawn mowers, power tools or gasoline.

- * Make sure all play structures have no hidden hazards such as unprotected protruding bolts, splintering wood, or unstable guard rails.

- * Remove poisonous plants. Seldom do children spend all their summertime hours in their own backyard. Many children will be exploring their neighborhoods and racing with the wind on their bicycles.

While parents are accustomed to the scrapes and bruises that cyclists often endure, many children are unfortunately having to seek emergency room treatment following a bike collision.

According to the National SAFE KIDS Campaign, 300 children ages 14 and under are killed each year in bicycle-related incidents, and another 400,000 receive emergency room treatment. Two-thirds of all bicycle-related fatalities occur in these warmer months.

According to the Division of Disabilities Prevention, the most serious bicycle-related injuries involve trauma to the cyclist's head.

"These severe head injuries could be reduced if cyclists would consistently wear helmets," points out Gilliland.

According to Gilliland, helmets reduce the risk of head injury by 85 percent, yet fewer than five percent of cyclists use helmets.

"Parents should help their children choose an approved helmet and insist that their children use them every time they ride," suggests Gilliland.

In addition to helmet use, children should be taught safe cycling rules and be expected to only cycle in areas designated safely by parents. It is also important to ensure that the child's bicycle is in good working order. As the heat rises, more children will be congregating at pools, lakes and creeks for recreational activities.

Whenever children are around water, a potential danger exists. Children should never be left unattended near water.

A drowning can happen within a matter of seconds in just a few inches of water. Children should learn how to swim from qualified instructors, but no child should be considered water-safe.

To be prepared in the event of an emergency, adults who care for children should learn infant and child CPR.

"The greatest risk children face any time of year is the risk of injury as a result of vehicle crashes," states Gretchen Mahan, Child Occupant Restraint coordinator, Mississippi Department of Rehabilitation Services.

"Often a seat belt or child restraint can prevent a minor injury from becoming a serious tragedy."

According to Mahan, children under 20 pounds should be restrained in a child safety seat facing backwards. A child weighing 20-40 pounds can be placed in a forward facing child seat.

Children weighing 40 to 60 pounds should be secured in booster seats.

"Many parents are too eager to discard car seats and place a child in a seat belt," explains Mahan.

"They don't realize that seat belts are not designed for children under approximately 70 pounds."

Although booster seats should be used by children who have outgrown the traditional safety seat, many people fail to use them.

Since most collisions occur less than 25 miles from home, everyone should buckle up any time the car is in use.

This summer, do your part to make sure your children are left with happy memories.

A little prevention can bring summertime smiles, not injuries.

Jubilee showcases local talent on Tuesdays

Top local acts like The Tip Tops, Jerry Fisher and The Music Company, and Hot Stuff & Tomato will have a chance to strut their stuff every Tuesday night at Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino.

Ron Erickson, Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino's vice president of marketing and entertainment, said the area is well known for its abundance of local talent.

"We are the only casino on the Coast who features nationally known headline acts four nights a week, and in addition to our Cool Country Night on Wednesday, we feel the local acts on Tuesday night will complement a full entertainment schedule," said Erickson.

Local acts will perform twice nightly at 7 and 9 p.m. in Bayou Caddy's Cabaret Showroom located on the third floor of the casino.

A Beach-a-thon, without sand!

An afternoon of reading fun

The Third Annual Beach-A-Thon at Hancock North Central Elementary School was a huge success according to teachers there. Sixth grade and first grade students spent the afternoon at the "beach" sharing their enthusiasm for reading. The lawn outside the school was transformed into a make-believe beach and the kids brought blankets, sun shades, beach balls and other paraphernalia to set the scene. The idea was the brainchild of Sue Gholson. After sharing a favorite book together, the students participated in beach games and had refreshments. What a wonderful way to learn and the students didn't even get sunburn or sand in their shoes!

Sunny retreat

First grader Brittany Bennett and sixth grader Monica Daw stayed protected from the sun during their reading time.

Fairy tales

Simon Davenport, Roger Ford and John Clay enjoy a fairy tale.

Reading ability

Andrew Silas listens while V.J. Saucier shows off his reading ability.

A good listener

Jeremy Lee listens to a story by Stephen Jones.

Chip and Dale

Joy Hammett read Chip and Dale to Mallory Hotard and Terri Odom.

Adventures

Brent LeBlanc, Anthony Lind and Greg Morgan enjoy a Berenstain Bear adventure.

A good book

Clay Shaw shared "Lion is Down in the Dumps" with Tori Campos and Dovan Saucier.

Places in JETS competition

Members of OLA's JETS TEAM received a trophy and special individual pins for having placed in the top ten in the nation.

OLA qualified for the national competition by winning first place in their division in the Jets State Teams Academic Competition held in March. Each individual received a medal for this accomplishment.

TEAMS is a unique and challenging academic competition which encourages team cooperation and group effort, cooperative learning strategy, higher-order thinking, academic rigor, application of knowledge and leadership and management skills.

Danielle Gobert, senior, was captain of OLA's JETS TEAM this year. Other members of the team are Nikki Chapman, Anne Courrege, Rebecca Dockens, Erica Lizana, Julie Ryan and Bernice Sy, juniors; and Sara Smolensky, sophomore.

Project teaches photography

Kmart and Eastman Kodak Company joined efforts to develop an educational project for the classroom called "It's a Snap! Using Cameras in the Curriculum." This project is designed to teach second-graders about photography and the environment in a fun and creative way.

Using a "My Beautiful World" theme, the program encouraged children to think about what is beautiful in their environment and what needs to be improved.

Mary Ann Wilkerson, Waveland Kmart representative, and Betsy Jacobs, second grade teacher, were coordinators for the project at Waveland Elementary. Fun Time, single-use cameras were provided by Kodak.

Each child's best photos were reviewed by the following panel of judges: Doc Toups, Janet Marengo, Jimmy Loiacano, Ronald Thomas and Paul McElveen.

The winners were: grand prize, Ryan Dedeaux; first place, Cody Jones; and second place, Zachary Delaney. The winning photographs were entered into a national contest. Every participating child in second grade received a certificate.
